ADMINISTRATIVE HISTORY

The Minneapolis Memorial Day Committee (MMDC), also referred to as the Minneapolis Memorial Day Association, was comprised of members of the Grand Army of the Republic (GAR), Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War (SUVCW), United Spanish War Veterans (USWV), Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW), The American Legion, Disabled American Veterans (DAV), Military Order of the Purple Heart (MOPH), as well as the auxiliaries and allied organizations of each, according to their by-laws. Each organization provided either 2 or 4 delegates for MMDC.

The MMDC actively carried out the principles of the GAR as they related to Memorial Day from approximately 1888 to 1968. Prior to 1888, G. A. R. No. 3 organized and oversaw proceedings for the holiday, however the formal committee didn't appear (in Minneapolis newspapers) until 1888. The organization's by-laws state that those principles were "non-political, non-racial, and non-sectarian" in their observance of the holiday.

Various G.A.R. committees worked with businesses and organizations in the community to garner support for Memorial Day events. G.L. Morrill, pastor of the People's Church, often held services in his church's sanctuary on Memorial Day, inviting the public as well as the GAR to those services.
